Applications are invited for a probationary tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the School of Health and Human Performance commencing July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will have a completed PhD in a relevant field with at least one degree related to recreation and leisure studies. The successful candidate will be expected to develop a successful research program. Preference will be given to candidates who have a demonstrated record of strong research or potential for a successful research program; demonstrated potential for teaching excellence is also preferred. The candidate should provide a record of teaching, research, and service related to: (a) diversity, inclusion, and the social determinants of health within diverse and marginalized populations, and (b) recreation and leisure service delivery settings and programs/services. Responsibilities include teaching core recreation courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels as well as supporting the School in the area of inclusion and diversity. Particular emphasis will be given to candidates who demonstrate the potential for success in the Recreation Division, School, Faculty and University with respect to facilitating and improving understanding related to diversity and health. The successful candidate may also be asked to contribute to inter-professional and diversity education initiatives within the Division, School and Faculty.

Applicants should submit a cover letter stating qualifications and abilities, a statement of research and teaching interest, a curriculum vitae, and three reference letters sent to: Dr. Laurene Rehman, Director, School of Health and Human Performance, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, B3H 4R2. The submission of applications electronically to laurene.rehman@dal.ca is preferred. Please reference Recreation and Leisure Studies Division. The application must also include a completed Self-Identification Questionnaire, which is available at www.dal.ca/becounted/selfid. Consideration of applications will begin immediately. Deadline for applications is March 30, 2018.

The School of Health and Human Performance at Dalhousie University is part of the Faculty of Health, whose mission is to lead integrated health research and education through collaborative partnerships in our local, national and global communities. The Faculty also includes the Schools of Physiotherapy, Occupational Therapy, Nursing, Health Administration, Human Communication Disorders, and Social Work, the College of Pharmacy, the QEII/Dalhousie School of Health Sciences, and the Clinical Vision Science program. Dalhousie University is located in Halifax, a small, historic, and culturally-active city located in a province with substantial lifestyle advantages such as music, theatre, festivals, beaches, whale-watching, hiking, and camping.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval.

GREAT CAREERS. GREAT CHOICE.